Search the web using general-purpose search systems (e.g., Google, Yahoo, Bing, DuckDuckGo)	50 (91%)
Ask colleagues for suggestions	29 (53%)
Look in the scientific literature to find what authors use in similar contexts	25 (45%)
Search in public software project repositories (SourceForge, GitHub, BitBucket, etc.)	25 (45%)
Ask or search social help sites (e.g., StackOverflow, Quora, etc.)	20 (36%)
Ask or search public mailing lists or discussion groups	17 (31%)
Search in specialized software indexes/catalogs (e.g., ASCL.net, SBML Software Guide, BioPortal, etc.)	13 (24%)
Search in my organization's code collection or repository (if any)	12 (22%)
Search the web using specialized code search engines (e.g., OpenHUB, Google Code, Krugle, Snipplr, Smipple, etc.)	10 (18%)
Ask or search mailing lists or discussion groups within to your organization	7 (13%)
Ask or search social media (e.g., Twitter, Facebook, LinkedIn, etc.)	5 (9%)
Other	4 (7%) Total individual responses: 55 Multiple selections allowed